EUROPE PRESERVED BY TRIFLE Vanity of Muss Kept Him From Lead

ing Montema at Tours. The most sirlking case in history of the importance of trifles is furnished by the story of Mura, the leader of the Moslem host which won from Christendom in three and a half years dominions which it took the soldiers of the cross twenty generations to win back.

He had a red beard; this was a triffe. Musa, though a very great general, was a very vain man, and he dyed his beard black. This was another trifle. One of his captains chaffed him on the subject and Musa forthwith had him stripped and scourged.

For this, at the very height of his conquering career, he was recalled by the caliph and disgraced. This made it impossible for him to command the Moslem army at the battle of Tours on the issue of which, as all historians agree, the destinies of Europe and perhaps of the whole human race depended.

It is almost certain that, if the genius of Musa had replaced the incompetence of the half-dozen tribal leaders, whose dissensions made victory possible, the forces of Islam would have joined hands from the west to the east and inclosed Europe in their grasp.-Stray Stories.

WOMAN'S FONDNESS FOR DRESS

Antiquary Shows It Has Been the Same In All Ages.

An antiquary was chuckling over an article on extravagance in dress. "A man wrote this, I'll warrant," he said. "Men are always writing such things. See what a man wrote in 1630 of a certain Miss Phraser's gown." And he read from his notebook:

"This lovely rich gown, of the best procade, much beleweled and embroidered, cost 330 pounds. It frights Sir Cave Scroope, who is much in love with her from marrying her, saying his estate will scarce maintain her

He turned another page:

"Mme. de Montespan," he read, wore at a great court festival a gown of gold on gold, embroidered n gold, bordered with gold, and over that a gold frieze stitched with a certain gold which makes the most divine stuff imaginable. But why deck out the human form with such ruinous extravagance?"

Uninjured by Terrible Fall, A blind boy, who was left in charge of a baker's horse and van near the Clifton suspension bridge at Bristol, had a most marvelous escape from a cruel death. The horse walked straight over the cliffs and fell to the bottom, a distance of 200 feet. The boy himself tumbled into a tree, whence he was afterward extricated unhurt, while at the foot of the cliffs the cart was found smashed to atoms. The miraculous escape does not end here, as it was found that the pony was uninjured .- Pearson's Weekly.

JURY FAILS TO CONVICT ALLEGED KIDNAPER CROWE

No Evidence to Connect Pat Crowd With the Abduction of Eddie Cudahy, Son of the Beef Packer.

Omaha.-The jury in the trial of Pat Crowe, charged with the robbery of Edward A. Cudahy, the Omaha packer, or $25,000 in connection with the kidnaping of the latter's son five years ago, Friday afternoon, after fifteen hours' deliberation, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The kidnaping of Eddie Cudahy, December 19, 1900, and his release upon | years. the payment by his father of $25,000 ransom, created a great sensation, and the search for the kidnapers was stimulated at the time by the offer of a reward of $50,000 by Mr. Cudahy.

It was the belief of the authorities that Crowe and James Callahan were the guilty parties, but no trace of them could be found until about a year ago, when Callahan was arrested. He was identified by young Cudahy as one of his captors, but was released on trial as it could not be shown that he received any of the money and there was at that time no law making the kidnaping of a person over 10 years of age a crime. Last October Crowe was arrested in Butte, Mont., and was put on trial February 7. There was no evidence to positively identify Crowe as one of the kidnapers.

Crowe was recently indicted in Council Bluffs, with others, on charge of holding up a street car.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART. Denver Man Murdered in Dining Room of His Hotel.

Denver .- Maurice L. Caplin, proorietor of the Denver Auction company, who resides in the heart of the Capitol Hill residence district, was murdered in the dining room of his home Friday night by a masked man, who entered for the purpose of robbery. Caplin was engaged in a game of cards with his wife, daughter and a friend. The hold-up walked in unannounced and, levelling two revolvers at Caplin, demanded his money. When Caplin emptied his pockets and his wife had turned over all the money she had, the robber ordered Caplin to give him the money he had received from the day's business. Caplin reached under the table, evidently for Caplin a stool to throw at the man, when the latter fired, the bullet striking Caplin in the heart, killing him instantly. The robber then backed out of the house and escaped.

Military Measures Taken in Case of Another Anti-Foreign Outbreak in China.

St. Petersburg.-In view of recent events in Ghina the Russian government, like that of the United States, has found it advisable to take the necessary military measures to be prepared for all eventualities. Though the foreign office officially scouts the alarmist tone of the Russian press and declared that no news had been received to excite apprehension, the council for national defense, which has been preparing to reduce the force in the far east to a minimum, takes a more serious view of the situation and is revising its plans for the evacuation of the armies in Manchuria, order to retain there a force "sufficient to maintain Russia's special interests on a plane with the other General Neney, at the head of a numerous body troops has attacked and captured the town of Dajabon, on the frontier of Hayti. Neney is a devoted partisan of Gen. Resigns to Take a Trip.

Washington.-Horace A. Taylor, assistant secretary of the treasury, has tendered to the president his resignation to take effect June 30, 1906, which was accepted. The president assured Mr. Taylor that he 'fully appreciated the very efficient services" he had rendered since he became assistant secretary at the beginning of President McKinley's first term. Mr. Taylor explained that for a long time he had had in mind a European trip which would occupy a year.

Optimism in France.

Paris.-The foreign office continues to take an optimistic view of the resuit of the conference at Algeciras, but this is coupled with the statement that France will not yield upon the essential question of the control of the police. This position appears to indicate that any German propositions based upon France relinquishing her claim for police power over Morocco are likely to meet with failure. However, there is no evidence of serious

HERE PHILOLOGY IS BAFFLED,

Impossible to Trace Clearly the Words "Tart" and "Pie,"

Usage alone must decide the issue between "pie" and "tart," which has returned to us with the gooseberries, says the London Chronicle. Philology, at any rate, draws no clear distinction. It only traces back "tart" to the Indian "tortus," twisted-the pastry being the twisted part, of course, while it is very doubtful about On the whole, Skeat's conjecture that this expresses the miscellaneous nature of the contents is persuasive. All the "ples" seem to go back to the original one, the magpie -in Latin, "plca"-from whose black and white aspect comes "pled" and "plebald." The old ordinal or service book was called "pica" or "pie" because of the appearance of the black letter type on a white page, and the edible pie, having equally mixed contents, may have been christened after this by medieval humor. Printers' language retains both "pica" for a kind of type and "pl" for type all jumbled up.
